

QUALITY, HEALTH, SAFETY & ENVIRONMENT

ROTTERDAM, 4 APRIL 2006

QHSE POLICY STATEMENT

Jumbo considers itself a key player in the maritime heavy lift industry within the parameters set by Management.

Jumbo is committed to consider Quality, Health, Safety, Environment and Security as equally important as other business objectives and complies with mandatory rules and regulations. QHSE and Security are fully integrated in Jumbo's business process and supported by a documented system.

Jumbo's Management will ensure that risks, with a potential to cause harm to personnel, client or sub-contractor, damage to cargo and harm to the environment are reduced to levels as low as reasonably possible. This Risk Based business approach is reflected in Jumbo's Management System.

Jumbo considers it's employees as it's greatest asset and will ensure that the environments personnel have to work in is as safe as possible.

Jumbo maintains operating practices that are friendly to the marine environment

In order for Jumbo to carry out its activities in a secure environment it has a fully implemented security system in line with legal requirements (ISPS). This security system is enhanced and adapted.

The quality of the services provided by Jumbo is captured in the fact that Jumbo is a specialised company with dedicated, highly qualified personnel. Jumbo's vessels are considered as critical elements (amongst others) in its business process and therefore receive all the technical support to ensure that Jumbo can meet its obligations towards its clients.

Jumbo has set clear and concise objectives that are translated in Key Performance Indicators (KPI's). These ensure that Jumbo has a mechanism in place to continuously improve on Quality, Health, Safety and Environment.

Michael Kahn (Kahn Scheepvaart B.V. as general agent for Jumbo Shipping)
Managing Director

